Issaquah Highlands Park-and-Ride

Sound Transit partnered with King County Metro Transit to develop a new transit center and a 1,000 stall parking structure on a four-acre site within the new Issaquah Highlands town center.

Mode
Bus

Highlights
Construction completed: February 2006

Location: Intersection of Highland Drive and High Street

Budget: $8 million

Planning partners: Sound Transit, Federal Transit Administration, King County Metro Transit, King County Roads

Consultants & contractors
Preliminary engineering/environmental documentation and final design: KPFF Consulting Engineers
Construction: Bayley Construction

Public art
The station features “Glacial Façade,” a skin of polished aluminum, designed by Ned Kahn and installed on the exterior of the facility.